

OKI Case Study

CBS have recently completed the interior design, fit-out, supply of new furniture and relocation for OKI Printing Solutions at their prestigious new offices at Blays House, Egham.

The design team worked closely with the client, from concept to completion, to ensure the interior scheme, layout and specification closely matched the brief for a clean, crisp, professional environment that has a 'European' feel.

Design features include an impressive boardroom, with a 24-person, bespoke maple veneer table, a feature drop down ceiling and lighting installation and a bespoke reception counter.

The entire project and relocation was carried out to a very strict timescale, to enable the client to vacate their existing offices. The project was delivered on time and within budget.

Project lead, Tracy Weightman stated:

"We put CBS on the spot with an incredibly tight deadline - and they delivered as promised! But most important for us was the continued post-move support. Creative, flexible and competent, they made sure we could settle in quickly in our new environment."

case studies