Boehringer Ingelheim Case Study

CBS has recently completed the refurbishment of washroom facilities at Boehringer Ingelheim's UK headquarters in Bracknell. Working to extremely tight deadlines, CBS successfully delivered the project on budget and on time.

Chris Grail, Projects and Technical Support Manager, stated:

"CBS proved themselves more than capable, delivering on time and on budget and to the required quality, without any fuss."

CBS were successful in winning the competitive tender to demolish and refit the 3rd floor washroom facilities which serve upwards of 100 staff.

Key requirements were:

- The delivery of a very high standard of finish
- The ability to take total responsibility for managing the entire project
- Completion in only three weeks, to meet the company's commitment to its staff.

Chris Grail said "We were impressed with the quality of CBS' response. Their understanding of the requirements was excellent and the questions they asked were beneficial to the construction process."

In addition to the fast-tracking of the project, a further challenge was the careful management of the work to avoid disruption to day to day business operations.

"CBS showed themselves to be flexible, willing to adapt to company policies and rules and comply with necessary health and safety requirements. All staff were unfailingly courteous, hard working and good at their jobs and CBS' control over subcontractors was excellent."
